How woodfuel is being used as a renewable, environmentally-friendly alternative to fossil fuels

Getting started if you are thinking of changing to woodfuel as a source of renewable heat.

The Woodfuel Fair is being held at the historic Alvie Estate near Aviemore. Alvie House is heated by woodfuel, and the Estate runs its own onsite supply business. There will be opportunities to see the boiler and supply at first hand, view trade displays from installers and suppliers of woodfuel equipment and to listen to presentations about using woodfuel and where to look for funding to assist with capital costs.

Book your place now - it's FREE!

The Woodfuel Fair is part of the Clim-ATIC project and is jointly organised by the Cairngorms National Park Authority, Highland Birchwoods and Forestry Commission Scotland.
