I agree a few more houses are required in the village but the number proposed, preferred and not preferred, are too many for the facilities available in the village.(Medical, schooling, bus services, sewage, work etc.) It will not continue to be a pretty small village where people enjoy to live and be able to recognise each other. Large scale developments shall spoil the character and probably most would be holiday homes which we already have enough of.

Maybe once all the work that is presently being done is finished and in operation, the proposals can then be looked at.
